ROADMAP TO RECOVERY

On Monday, the Construction Leadership Council (CLC) unveiled its recovery plan 'Roadmap to Recovery'. The 'Roadmap to Recovery' is a strategy to drive the recovery of the construction and built environment sectors, and through them the wider UK economy, following the Covid19 pandemic and economic downturn. There are three phases to the plan which are to be delivered over two years. These are:

- Restart: increase output, maximise employment and minimise disruption (0-3 months),
- Reset: drive demand, increase productivity, strengthen capability in the supply chain (3-12 months), and
- Reinvent: transform the industry, deliver better value, collaboration, and partnership (12-24 months)

The strategy aims to increase the level of activity across the construction ecosystem, accelerate the process of industry adjustment to the new normal, and build capacity in the industry to deliver priorities including:

- Increasing prosperity across the UK,
- Decarbonisation (net-zero carbon),
- Modernisation through digital and manufacturing technologies and,
- Delivering better and safer buildings.

A copy of the full plan can be obtained here.
